NZDSOS Calls for Immediate Suspension of mRNA Vaccines in New Zealand.

New Zealand Doctors Speaking Out with Science (NZDSOS), along with the Australian Medical Professionals Society (AMPS) urgently call for the immediate suspension of mRNA vaccines in New Zealand and Australia, aligning with global concerns raised through Chief Medical Advisor for health action in the US, Dr. Aseem Malhotra. Dr Malhotra and his team have highlighted significant safety signals and risks associated with the covid vaccinations.

Mounting evidence suggests significant serious adverse effects impacting multiple bodily systems, as documented in thousands of peer-reviewed studies worldwide.

In New Zealand, we are witnessing a disturbing rise in medical events following the vaccination rollout - heart attacks, strokes, myocarditis, rapid-onset cancers, neurological disorders, and reproductive health issues - yet these signals are being ignored by authorities.

The approval trial safety data for these mRNA was clearly incomplete, with post-marketing longer-term data accruing round the world which is highly negative.

Furthermore, fully emerged evidence proves negative efficacy, so the risk-benefit ratio of these vaccines essentially becomes infinite. This was obvious to us from the start and we have consistently called for their withdrawal.

We note that other rushed Covid-era vaccines, such as from AstraZeneca and Jansen were withdrawn globally after undeniable evidence of harm, including blood clots and death.

This precedent raises serious questions about the credibility of official assurances regarding Covid-19 vaccine safety in New Zealand, particularly when Medsafe's provisional approval of these products came with 58 conditions - the outcomes of which are 'commercially sensitive' and not available for public scrutiny. Sadly, much of the missing information Medsafe identified related to danger concerns that have actually eventuated.

The lack of transparency around these conditions, combined with reports of overwhelmed hospitals and suppressed adverse event data, is alerting the public.

NZDSOS calls again for an immediate halt to the mRNA vaccine rollout. Much peer-reviewed evidence makes the case. The absence of open scientific discourse in the face of obvious deaths and disability, coupled with the silencing of concerned medical professionals, is morally reprehensible and damaging to New Zealanders.

NZDSOS stands firm in our ethical duty to uphold all medical ethics and human rights and we urge the New Zealand government and its CEOs, Medsafe and the Ministry of Health, the Governor General and the Director General of Health to prioritise the health and well-being of all New Zealanders by acting decisively now.
